Problems for the Business

Fragmented Brand Experience
Multiple design systems and infrastructures create inconsistent UI across products, weakening Disney Advertising’s brand identity.

Slow Development Cycles & Higher Costs
Teams repeatedly build similar components from scratch, wasting time and resources.

Limited Scalability
Adding new features or products requires reinventing components, making growth expensive and slow.

Problems for the Users

Inconsistent User Experience
Different UI patterns across products confuse users and reduce usability.

Accessibility Gaps
Without centralized guidelines, accessibility compliance varies, excluding some users.

Lower Quality & Trust
Fragmented design leads to visual and functional inconsistencies, reducing confidence in the platform.

Governance Model

Closed

Open

Centralized

Pros: Consistency and control
Cons: Inflexible, prone to bottlenecks

Federated

A central body set standards while contribution is open, balancing control and flexibility.

Decentralized

Pros: Flexibility and agility
Cons: Inconsistencies, lack of control, ”Wild West“

Visual Design Principles

Inviting

Not only at the front door, but throughout the entirety of their journey – the user in drawn further into the experience through attractive and enjoyable design.

Through using familiar and friendly visuals, the user feels at ease and comfortable that they are about to engage in a trustworthy and reliable environment.

Structured

The experience is designed to allow for the user to have an instinctual, and intuitive ability to navigate and understand where they are situated at any altitude.

Using clean, minimal, and clear design choices, the experience feels hierarchical and organized providing clear paths in a complex garden.

Focused

The full experience is crafted to highlight key data enabling users to quickly make important decisions.

The interplay of selective color, typography, and vibrancy highlight the task at hand to accurately enable and inform action.

Concentration is optimized. The user is lead by design to the areas they need to pay most attention to.

Immersive

We incorporate the inherent power of the Disney brand by creating an additional layer of the experience that feels fun and fascinating.

The user is captivated, embedded into the ecosystem, and enjoys spending time in the experience – but is not distracted by the playfulness.

Impactful

Ulitmately, the user is able to confidently and effectively execute day to day tasks.

The end to end experience is simple and efficient allowing the user to reap the full benefits of their time and optimize bandwidth.

Iconography

Inviting

Rounded corners, simplified, and clearly recognizable shapes support a familiar and friendly tone.

Structured

Single stroke width supports a balanced look and feel. This keeps shapes and icon heaviness consistent, clean, minimal, and clear.

Focused

Thick strokes support the vibrancy of the interface, leading concentration and attention to the task at hand. Balanced and minimal shapes allow space to keep focus on the icon’s meaning for quick and accurate reading.

Immersive

Additional contextual elements bring layered meaning and fun to support context. This facilitates embedding a user in the ecosystem and their enjoyment of the experience.

Impactful

Simplified and strong icons support the execution of an action. With rounded corners, and thick strokes, the attention is centered and reinforces a simple meaning and context.

Data Visualization

Inviting

friendly shapes

- slight round to charts

accessible colors

- usable for everybody

predictable

- familiar charts and graphs so the user feels comfortable

Structured

clean & minimal

- the use of color is reserved for important items such as charts or warnings

attention

- when something is “on track” it does not draw attention. When something is complete it is filled in color indicating growth

- the color darkens as the data grows

Focused

reserved

- use accent color to highlight important sections
- semantic colors used lightly and very intentionally to not overbear

hierarchical

- legend on the bottom left to draw focus on the chart itself layered

- leverage states to add more detail as needed
- use “see more” for longer legends to reduce noise

Immersive

colorful

- engaging colors

energizing

- utilizes movement
- playful colors and shapes

tells a story

- eye follows lines
- leverage states states to paint the bigger picture and feel interactive, creating layers and dimensions to the data

Impactful

comprehensible

- bar charts only have slight border radius to allow full comprehension and comparative analysis

organized

- organization of labels allows you to quickly gain an understanding of what you’re reading

Success Metrics – Additional Estimated Impact

Cost Without Design System

Each team builds each component individually:

Cost =
Teams × Components × Cost per Component
20 × 80 × $3,272.00
= $5,235,200

Cost With Design System

90% duplication avoided:

$5,235,200 × (1 − 0.9)
= $523,520

Cost Savings

$5,235,200 − $523,520
= $4,711,680

ROI Summary

- If Number of Teams: 20
- Average hourly blended cost (Eng & Design): $162
- # of Components: 80
- Cost without Design System: $5,235,200
- Cost with Design System: $523,520
- Estimated Cost Savings: $4,711,680
- Estimated Time Savings: 28,800 hours ≈ 13.8 work years

Total potential impact = $9,377,280 in combined cost and time savings annually.

Success Metrics – Additional Expected Impact

Improved Quality & Accessibility

- 100% WCAG-compliant components, reducing risk of accessibility-related legal exposure.
- Fewer UI inconsistencies and bugs, lowering QA and support costs.

Brand Cohesion & Advertiser Trust

- Premium, polished experiences aligned with Disney’s reputation.
- Increased advertiser satisfaction and retention through consistent, intuitive interfaces.

Scalability for Future Growth

- A unified design system that supports multiple infrastructures and evolving product needs.
- Reduced design debt and technical overhead, freeing resources for innovation.

Theme: Publisher-Controlled → Advertiser-Controlled

Access to Measurement & Performance

- Advanced reporting / data exporting
- Cross-channel measurement plugins
- “Live” performance reporting
- Insights / support

Audience Targeting Controls & Reach

- Advanced targeting (behavioral segments)
- Audience creation
- 1P data activation inside the platform
- Direct control over geo + loyalty targeting

Creative & Optimization Tooling

- Creative composition tooling
- “Off-the-shelf” recommendations
- Collaboration on campaign strategy
- Immediate budget and creative adjustments

Hypothesis

We must transform from a managed media seller into an advertiser-controlled growth platform.

We must transfer power, control, data, and optimization directly to the advertiser.

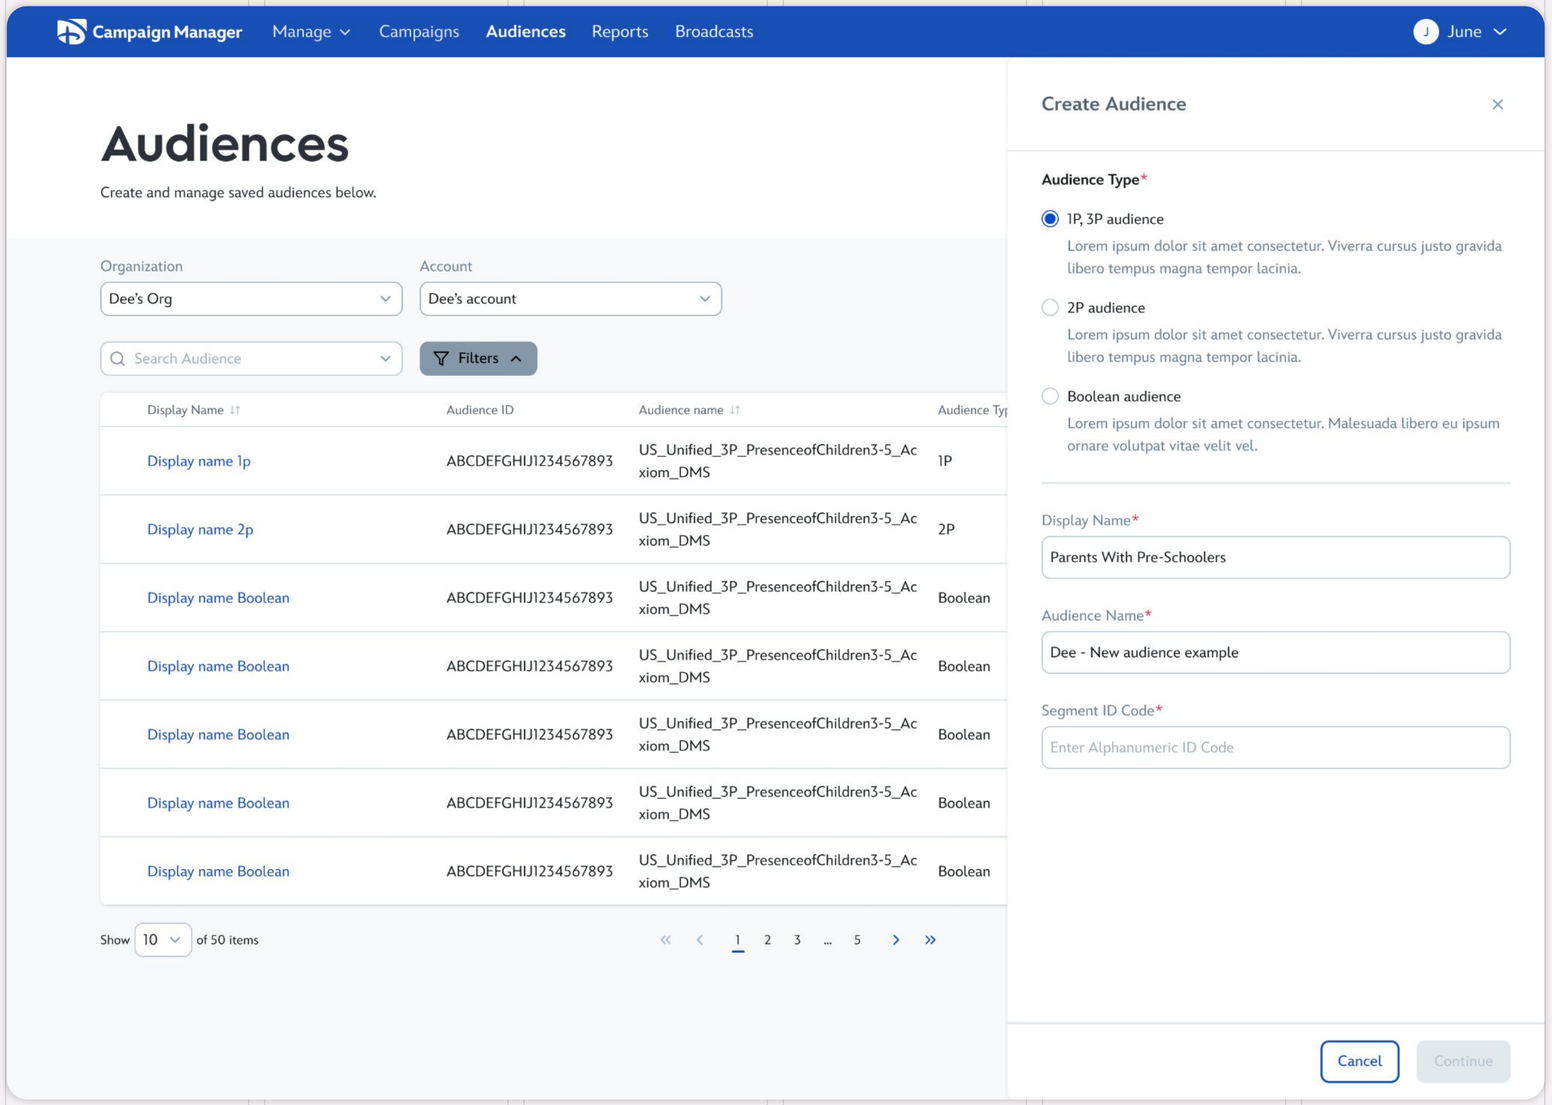
Long Term Externalized Audience Creation

- To close the gap DCM introduces “Curated Audiences”.
- This enables Sellers to curate and push advanced audience segments to Advertisers, expanding targeting capabilities within Self-Serve.
- Once applied, advertisers can independently reuse these audiences across campaigns enabling scale, efficiency, and long-term transition toward full self-service.



Long Term Externalized Audience Creation

- 1P: Sellers use Disney data
- 3P: Liveramp and Sellers use external data mapped to Disney data to create audiences
- 2P: Advertiser and Seller use advertiser data mapped to Disney data to create audiences
- Boolean: existing 1P and 3P audiences are combined together using AND/OR logic to create a new audience segment.

Competition’s Ad Creation Tools

Most major streaming platforms lack self-serve, web-based ad creation tools. There is a gap for true creativity and customization in interactive ads.

Our competitors have interactive ads, but their means of creation, customization, and delivery fall short.

Platform	Web-Based Ad Creative Tool	Interactive Ad Formats Supported	Where it Falls Short
Youtube	✓ Yes (Video Builder)	✓ End screens, shoppable, CTAs	✗ Template-based only, no branching logic or rich interactivity
Peacock	✗ No	✓ Shoppable, pause, overlay ads	✗ No external creative tool; relies on internal teams or external agencies
Prime Video	✓ Amazon Video Builder	✓ Fire TV Interactive ads	✗ Builder only for static videos; interactive ads built in-house
Max (HBO)	✗ No	✓ One-click reveal, carousel, extendable, locator	✗ No self-serve creative tool; interactive units agency-built
Paramount+	✓ Yes (via Waymark, Spaceback)	− Pause Ads, branded slates	✗ Tools support basic video creation; limited interactivity
Netflix	✗ No	− Interactive ads in development	✗ No creative tooling; infrastructure still evolving

Externalizing Ad Creation Tools

Unifying creation and buying unlocks new value.

Integrating DXC creation into DCM bridges the gap between building and buying.

How it ladders into OKRs:

- Be CTV's Highest Yield Platform - expands premium ad opportunities.
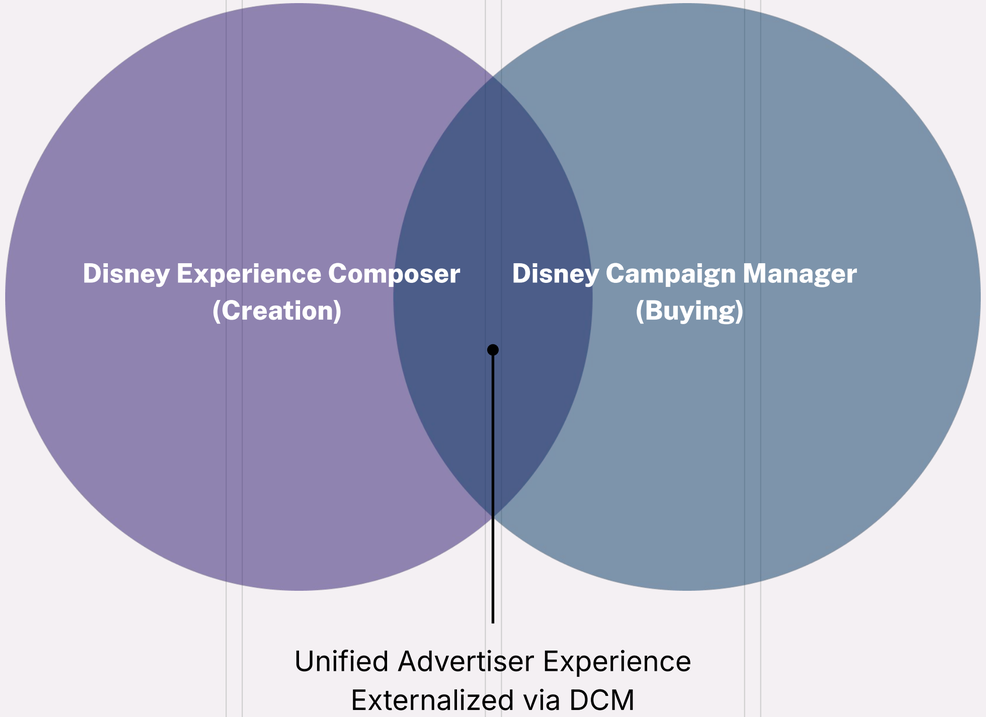
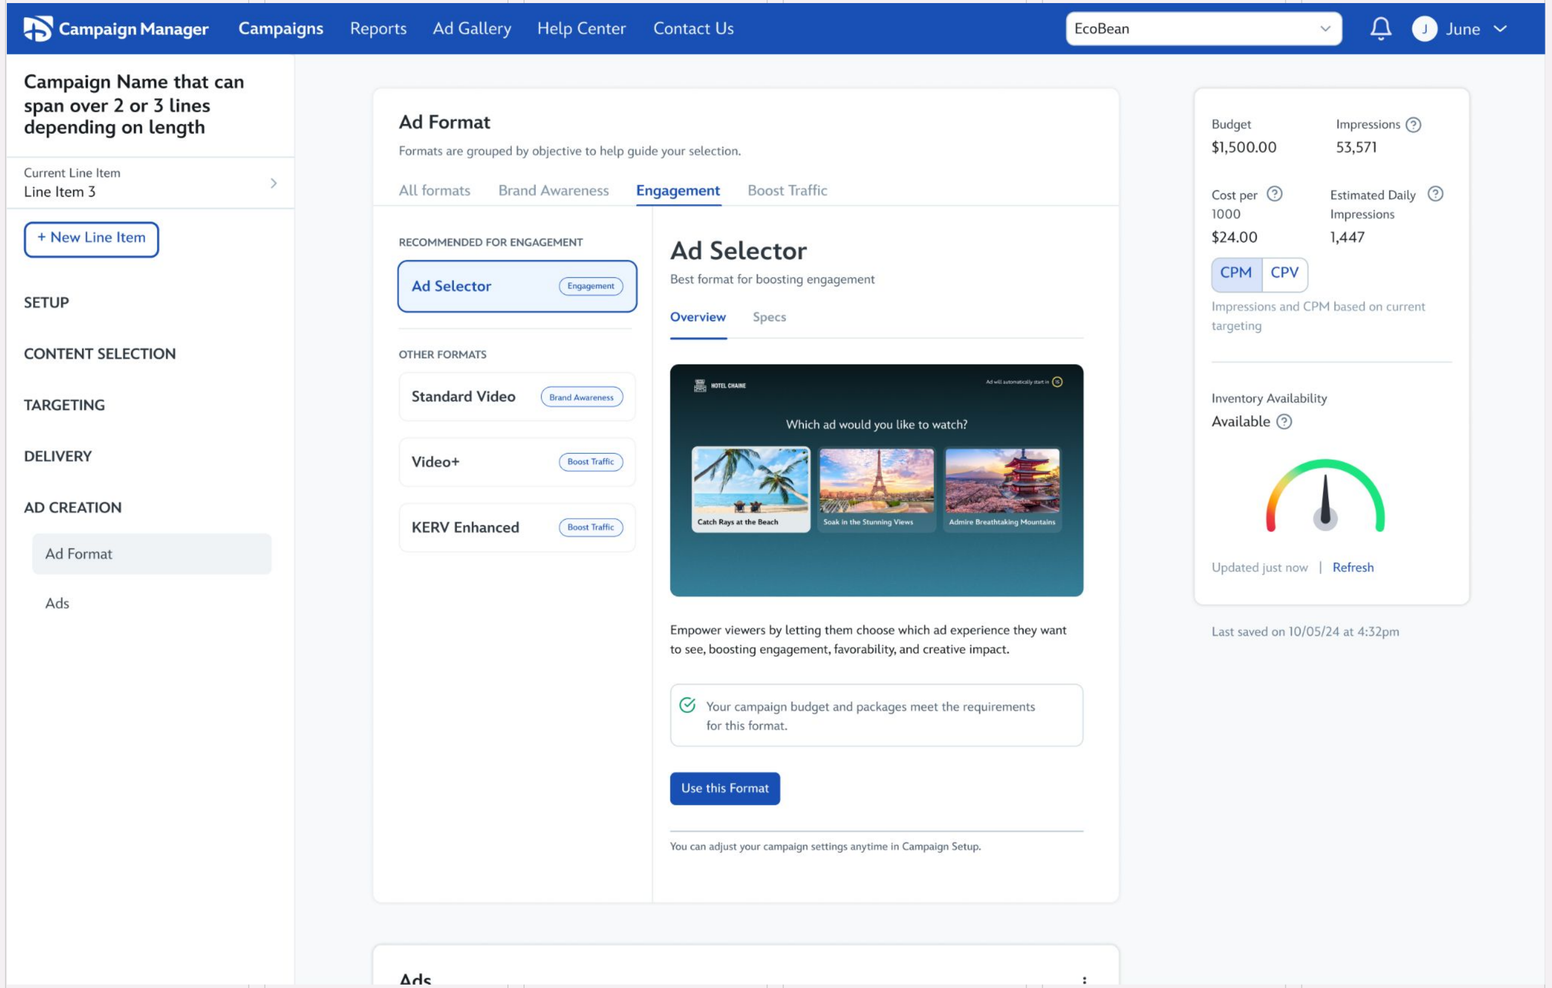
- Be the Easiest Buying Platform to Transact With - simplify workflows through unified creation and buying.
- Generate Greater Value for Advertisers - enable self-serve access and faster campaign setup.



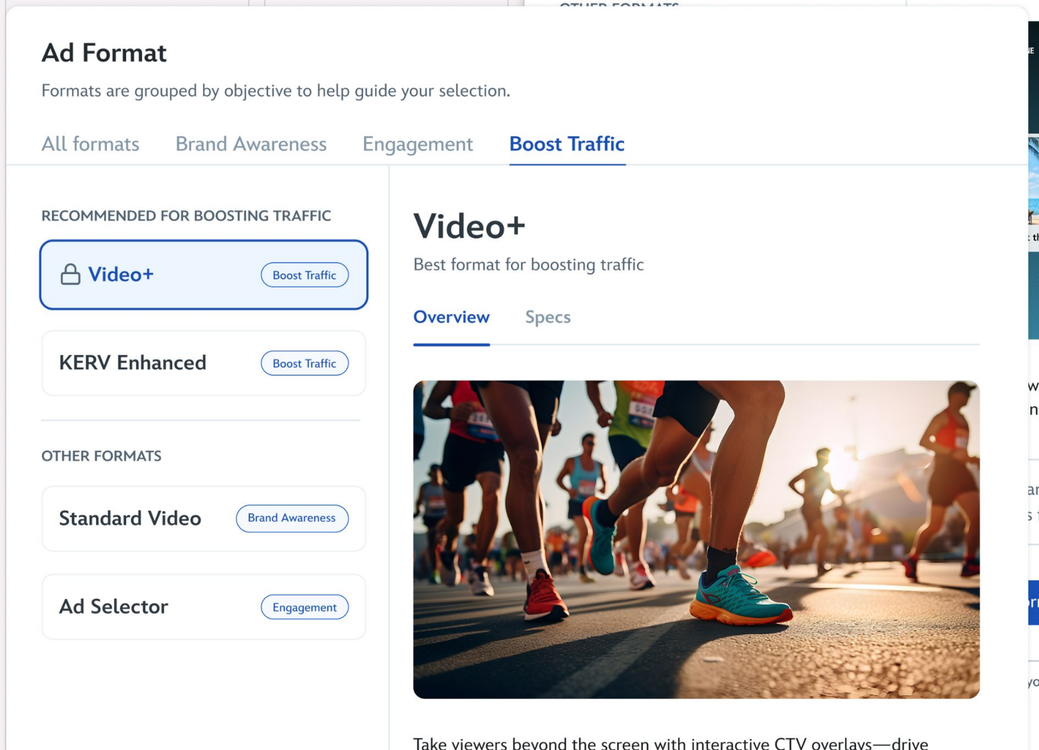
Externalizing Ad Creation Tools

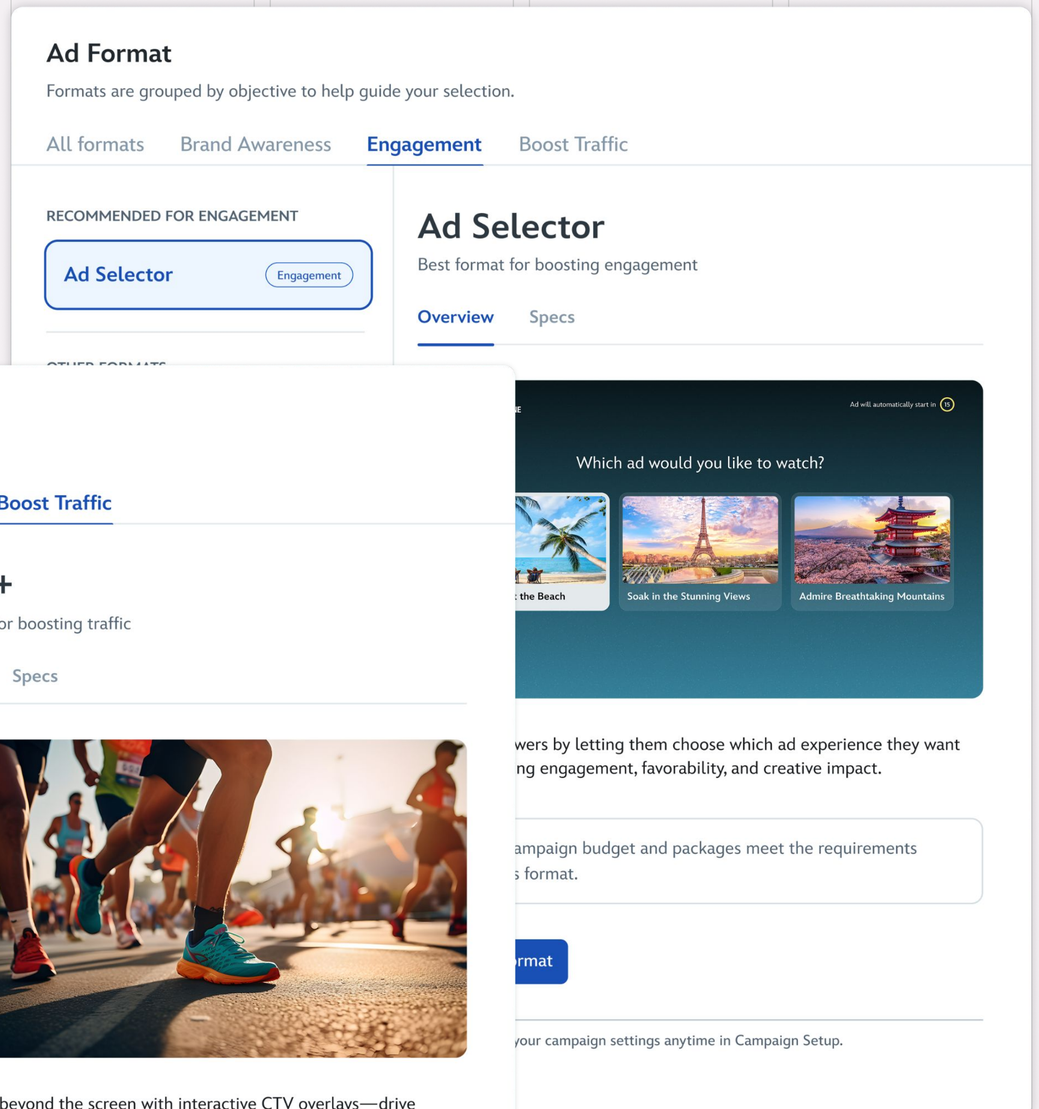
- DXC = Disney eXperience Composer
- Enable all advertisers to access premium ad formats directly in DCM by removing operational overhead and leveraging DXC for self-serve ad creation.



Externalizing Ad Creation Tools

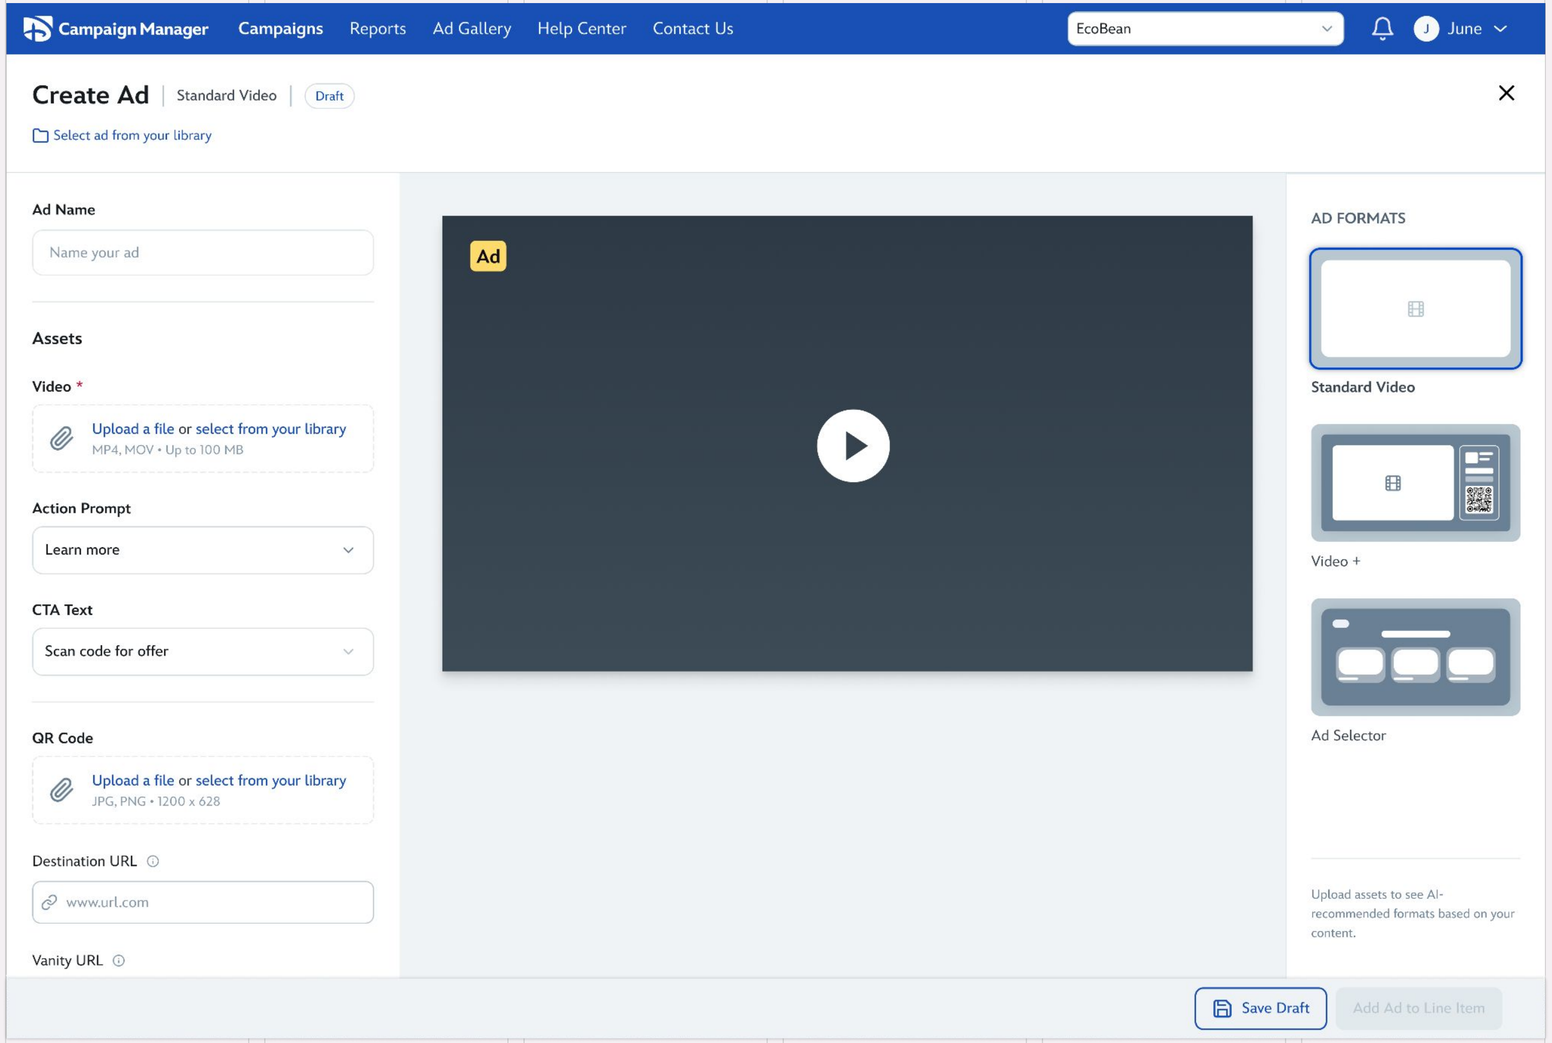
- Ad formats are organized by campaign objective to help advertisers explore available options, understand requirements and eligibility, and decide whether a format is right for their campaign.





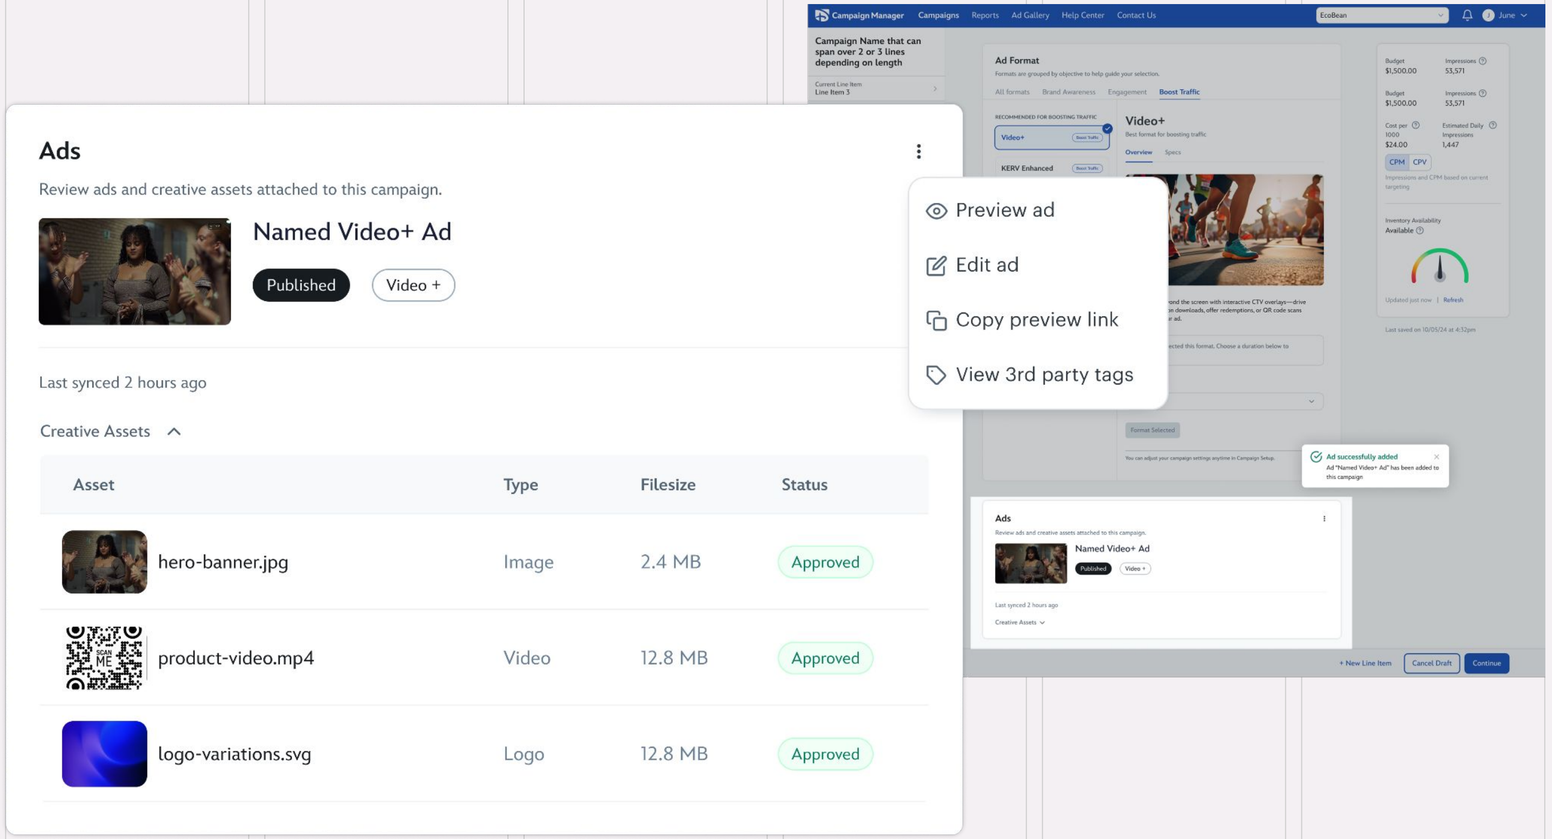
Externalizing Ad Creation Tools

- Ad creation happens directly within campaign setup, allowing advertisers to upload assets, customize creative, and preview in real time without leaving the flow.



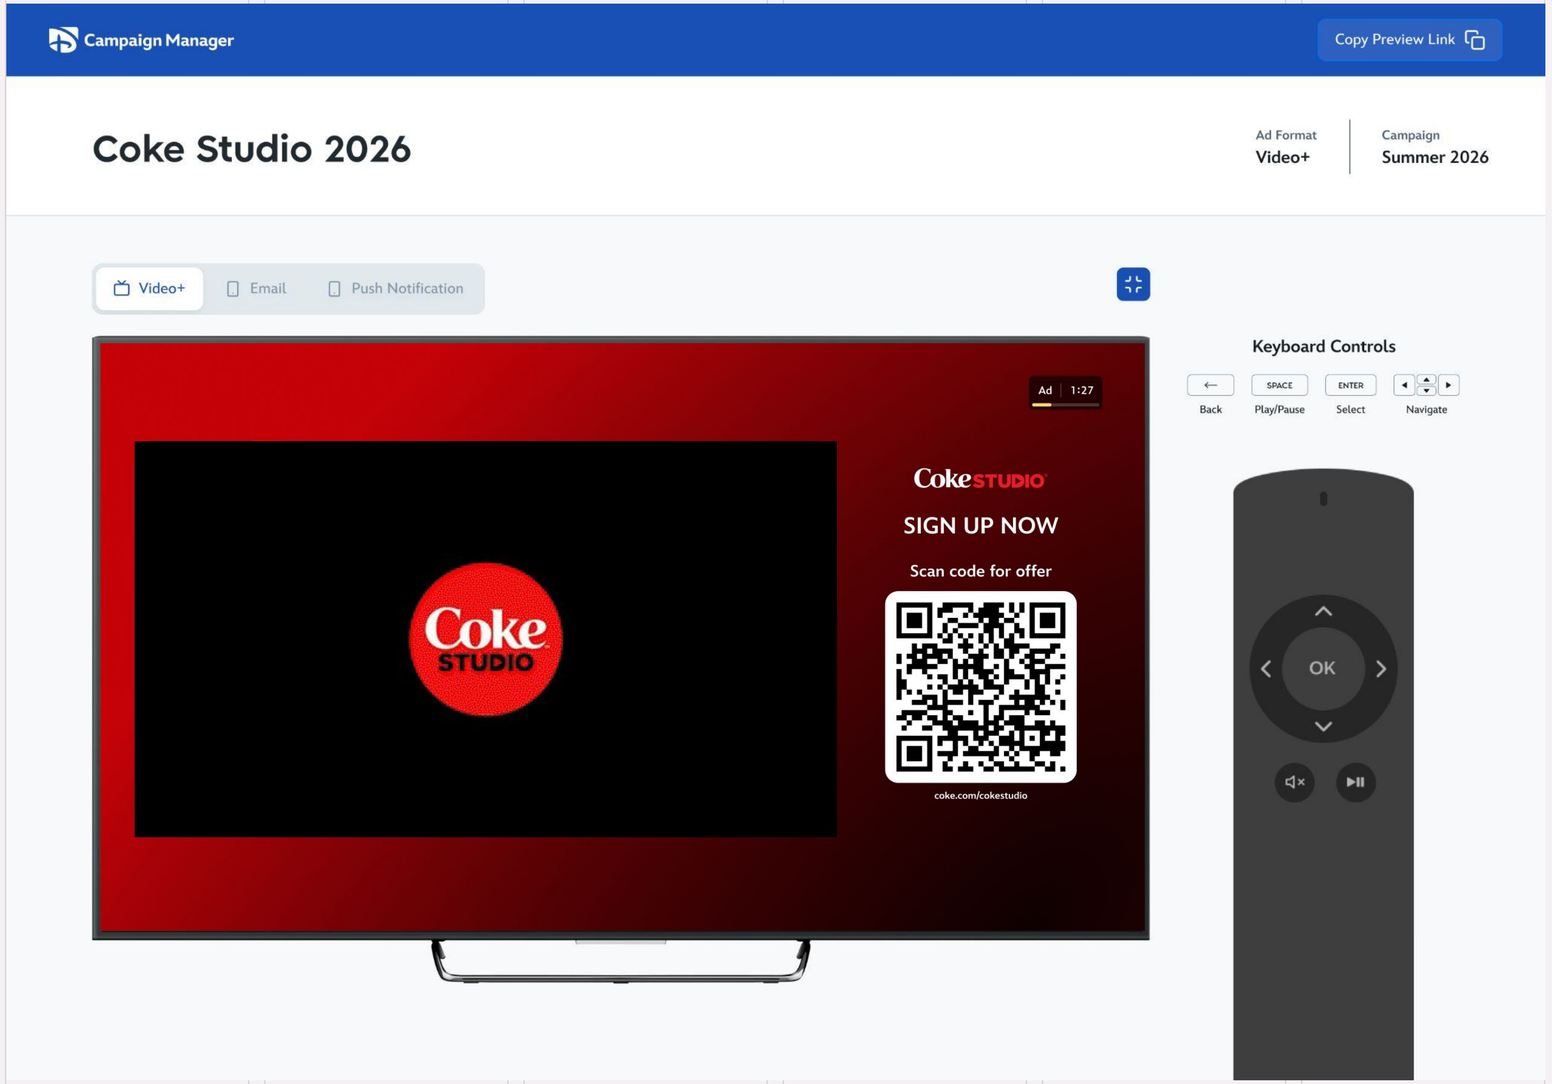
Externalizing Ad Creation Tools

- After creation, ads and associated assets are surfaced within the campaign flow for review, validation, and iteration before launch.



Externalizing Ad Creation Tools

- Users can preview their rendered experience (in all forms: interactive, second screen, etc.) Public link that can be sent to advertisers for review.



Externalizing Ad Creation Tools

Why Hire Me?

I’ve spent years scaling complex platforms at Disney. I’m excited to apply my systems thinking in a real-time, consumer-facing ecosystem.

My super power is upleveling design craft and quality.

I know how to translate vision into roadmaps, rituals, and shipped outcomes.

I’ve grown designers into leaders and hand-selected teams that consistently raise the bar.

This feels like the right inflection point for me to expand my impact beyond Disney.

Thank You!
